Nelson Handwriting contains six workbooks for infants and five full colour pupil books, one for each year group. The books are sequenced for progression and contain three levels of differentiation designed for a wide range of abilities. The books introduce, teach and develop the technical aspects of key handwriting skills in meaningful, relevant language contexts. They have been organized in such a way that you can teach handwriting to the whole class, groups and individuals. They contain increased provision for the early years, introducing exit flicks from the beginning, provides structured units which offer a teaching focus point followed by opportunities for practice and gives support and extension copymaster options. They contain improved assessment provision which helps to assess progress and encourages pupils to monitor their own development.

This book explores what writing for pleasure means, and how it can be realised as a much-needed pedagogy whose aim is to develop children, young people, and their teachers as extraordinary and life-long writers. The approach described is grounded in what global research has long been telling us are the most effective ways of teaching writing and contains a description of the authors' own research project into what exceptional teachers of writing do that makes the difference. The authors describe ways of building communities of committed and successful writers who write with purpose, power, and pleasure, and they underline the importance of the affective aspects of writing teaching, including promoting in apprentice writers a sense of self-efficacy, agency, self-regulation, volition, motivation, and writer-identity. They define and discuss 14 research-informed principles which constitute a Writing for Pleasure pedagogy and show how they are applied by teachers in classroom practice. Case studies of outstanding teachers across the globe further illustrate what world-class writing teaching is. This groundbreaking text is essential reading for anyone who is concerned about the current status and nature of writing teaching in schools. The rich Writing for Pleasure pedagogy presented here is a radical new conception of what it means to teach young writers effectively today.

"HELP! My Students Can't Write!" Why You Need a Writing Revolution in Your Classroom and How to Lead It. The Writing Revolution (TWR) provides a clear method of instruction that you can use no matter what subject or grade level you teach. The model, also known as The Hochman Method, has demonstrated, over and over, that it can turn weak writers into strong communicators by focusing on specific techniques that match their needs and by providing them with targeted feedback. Insurmountable as the challenges faced by many students may seem, TWR can make a dramatic difference. And the method does more than improve writing skills. It also helps: Boost reading comprehension Improve organizational and study skills Enhance speaking abilities Develop analytical capabilities TWR is as much a method of teaching content as it is a method of teaching writing. There's no separate writing block and no separate writing curriculum. Instead, teachers of all subjects adapt the TWR strategies and activities to their current curriculum and weave them into their content instruction. But perhaps what's most revolutionary about the TWR method is that it takes the mystery out of learning to write well. It breaks the writing process down into manageable chunks and then has students practice the chunks they need, repeatedly, while also learning content.

It's tough getting children to sit down and practice handwriting, especially if they are just starting out. So we asked ourselves: What would make it fun? Is there even such a thing as fun cursive handwriting? And the answer was obvious: Farts. So we put together an A to Z of the silliest, craziest, kids-will-find-it-funny-even-if-the-parents-don't, sentences, added in some blank practice paper and voila. Just so we are clear, it's not actually rude! The rude words included are: fart, poo, bum, butt, bottom, burp, blow off, bogey, doodoo, dropping, dung, plop, kaka, nappy, toenail, wee. Please use the 'Search inside' function to have a look before you buy. There are no other handwriting practice books like this! Book contains > 93 pages of high quality, A4 paper.
