When reading this book, you should remember that manipulation is a tool, much like a hammer. You can either use that hammer to destroy everything around you, or you could alternatively use that hammer to create something organic, something new. This book will take you first through the discovery and analyzation of those around you, and then it will provide different ways that you can persuade them. The only thing you need before starting this book is the willingness to change. You might have to confront some of your darkest issues, and you might have to put yourself through future scenarios that elicit a feeling of discomfort. Analyzing people at first glance is natural. We all do it and there is no point in denying it. Through instinct and experience some people are better in this process than others. This is also undeniable. However, science and research has made it possible to learn a few ways to make sure that the analysis we make of the people that we meet for the first time is not based only on instinct and experience but also on undeniable scientific facts. "How to Analyze People" has the purpose of presenting those ways to the general public, to explain them and to point out the necessity of incorporating them into our way of sizing up people and drawing our conclusions about them. Many texts speak only about the ways of observing the eyes. Other texts refer to the body language or "non-verbal communication" as it has become to be known. A few more texts refer to how the pitch and intonation of a voice carries out the messages. These are all

Most people hear what is said to them and have no choice but to accept because they do not have the mental ability to examine the words and match it with or against the body language being displayed. Others can notice body language cues

"If only I could know what he/she is thinking...?" This statement is one most of us have used at one time or the other. Let us not forget the common regret statement of, "how could I not see X for what he/she truly is? How could I be so blind?" Many are the times when we wish we had the ability to read the mind of those we are in love with, those we do business with, and those we associate with on an everyday basis. This wish, although nothing but a wish, comes from the fact that knowing what someone is thinking would make communicating and relating infinitely easy. If we could read minds, we would know what to do or say at the right time. We would never have to worry about how others perceive you, and we would not have to waste so much time on people who did not deserve it. If we could read minds, the world would be 'sucker' free. Such ability would save so much time and trouble! While the ability to read minds may seem like something out of a Sci-Fi movie, did you know that if you applied psychology to analyze people, you could
