meditation on the
poetics of historical

traces an ongoing
revolution in historical study, a movement that challenged, in the practice of language, the opposition of science and literature. By way of a commentary on Erich Auerbach, he shows how fictional narrative intertwines with historical narrative to produce a "truth" that retains

The poetics of itself the status of

The acquisition of self-knowledge is often described as one of the main goals of philosophical inquiry.

At the same time, some sort of self-knowledge is often regarded as a necessary condition of our being a human agent or human subject. Thus self-knowledge is taken to constitute both the beginning and the

The book is divided into 3 parts. The first argues that

activities which

appear to be

timeless - gathering

knowledge,

analysing,

disseminating and

employing it - are in fact time-bound and take different forms in different periods and places. The second part tries to counter the tendency to write a triumphalist history of the 'growth' of knowledge by discussing losses of specialization. The third part offers

geographical,

sociological and

chronological

overviews,

contrasting the

experience of

the main trends of the period -*

professionalization,
