Timothy Ferriss è molto più di un mental coach: è diventato ormai un campione del web, con milioni di follower, e con i suoi libri, “Bibbie” del saper vivere, ha catturato legioni di lettori. Di sicuro è uno che non ha paura di niente: ogni volta che si prefigge di imparare qualcosa, che sia una lingua orientale, un’arte marziale, una strategia infallibile di management, Tim sa come fare. Ma Ferriss è diventato quello che è oggi perché ha tratto ispirazione da tanti giganti, come li chiama lui, che ha scovato in giro per il mondo, ciascuno maestro nella sua disciplina. E da loro ha carpito i segreti che li hanno resi le persone che sono oggi. Maghi degli scacchi, divi hollywoodiani, militari pluridecorati, super-atleti, scrittori da milioni di copie, grandi manager, guru della meditazione, star della medicina, assi della finanza: basta scegliere il personaggio più affine ai nostri sogni, la nostra icona. Qui ritroviamo distillato il “Ferriss-pensiero”, nonché il suo istinto infallibile per il meglio di tutto ciò che è mainstream, cultura di massa. Entreremo in possesso di una vera e propria cassetta degli attrezzi, un kit di strumenti per cambiare la nostra vita. Suddiviso in tre grandi sezioni – salute, ricchezza, saggezza, perché per raggiungere il successo e la felicità ci vogliono tutte e tre –, Tim ha concepito questo manuale di vita come un sontuoso buffet da cui prendere ciò che fa più gola. È il libro che voleva da sempre: si è divertito a scriverlo, sapendo che noi ci divertiremo a leggerlo.

In her new novel, Christina Hesselholdt delves into the world of the enigmatic American photographer, Vivian Maier (1926-2009), whose unique photographic body of work only reached the public by chance. On the surface, Vivian Maier lived a quiet life as a loving, firm and feisty nanny for wealthy families in Chicago and New York. But throughout four decades, she took more than 150,000 photos, mainly with Rolleiflex cameras. The pictures were only discovered in an auction shortly before she died, impoverished and feasibly very lonely. In a time when self-obsession and representation are at an all-time high, Vivian Maier holds a particular fascination. Who was this eccentric person? And why did she not try to make a living from her art? In Vivian, a chorus of voices, including Vivian's own, address these questions. We watch Vivian grow up in a severely dysfunctional family in New York and Champsaur in France, and we follow her as a nanny in Chicago and as a photographer on the streets of these American cities and in rural France. The novel comprises multiple voices: Vivian's, her mother's, one of the children she looked after and her parents. And crucially, the voice of the inquisitive narrator, who pulls the threads together and asks Vivian prying questions.

In this series, Aperture Foundation works with the world's top photographers to distill their creative approaches, teachings, and insights on photography offering the workshop experience in a book. Our goal is to inspire photographers of all levels who wish to improve their work, as well as readers interested in deepening their understanding of the art of photography. Each volume is introduced by a well-known student of the featured photographer. In this book, internationally acclaimed color photographers Alex Webb and Rebecca Norris Webb, offer their expert insight into street photography and the poetic image. Through words and photographs their own and others they invite the reader into the heart of their artistic processes. They share their thoughts about a wide range of practical and philosophical issues, from questions about seeing and being in the world with a camera, to how to shape a complete body of work in a way that's both structured and intuitive.

Aristotle's zoological writings with their wealth of detailed investigations on diverse species of animals have fascinated medieval and Renaissance culture. This volume explores how these texts have been read in various traditions (Arabic, Hebrew, Latin), and how they have been incorporated in different genres (in philosophical and scientific treatises, in florilegia and encyclopedias, in theological symbolism, in moral allegories, and in manuscript illustrations). This multidisciplinary and multilinguistic approach highlights substantial aspects of Aristotle's animals.

'The Book of the Year, perhaps of the decade, has to be Matthew Sturgis's Oscar' TLS, Books of the Year. NOMINATED FOR THE WOLFSON HISTORY PRIZE 2019. A SUNDAY TIMES BOOK OF THE YEAR. 'Simply the best modern biography of Wilde ... A terrific achievement' Evening Standard. 'Page-turning ... Vivid and desperately moving. However much you think you know Wilde, this book will absorb and entertain you' Sunday Times. 'Wonderfully exciting ... Sturgis's great achievement is to take on board his great flurry of contradictions' Craig Brown, Mail on Sunday. '[Sturgis] is a tremendous orchestrator of material, fastidious, unhurried, indefatigable' Observer. 'Oscar Wilde is more fashionable than ever ... Sturgis's account of the hearing at the Old Bailey is as gripping as it is grim' Guardian. 'The Book of the Year, perhaps of the decade, has to be Matthew Sturgis's Oscar which captures the wit, the love-ability, the dramatic genius, the insane self-destructiveness, the originality of Wilde ... [Sturgis] is the greatest chronicler of the 1890s we have ever had' TLS, Books of the Year. Oscar Wilde's life – like his wit – was alive with paradox. He was both an early exponent and a victim of 'celebrity culture': famous for being famous, he was lauded and ridiculed in equal measure. His achievements were frequently downplayed, his successes resented. He had a genius for comedy but strove to write tragedies. He was an unabashed snob who nevertheless delighted in exposing the faults of society. He affected a dandified disdain but was prone to great acts of kindness. Although happily married, he became a passionate lover of men and – at the very peak of his success – brought disaster upon himself. He disparaged authority, yet went to the law to defend his love for Lord Alfred Douglas. Having delighted in fashionable throngs, Wilde died almost alone: barely a dozen people were at his graveside. Yet despite this ruinous end, Wilde's star continues to shine brightly. His was a life of quite extraordinary drama. Above all, his flamboyant refusal to conform to the social and sexual orthodoxies of his day make him a hero and an inspiration to all who seek to challenge convention. In the first major biography of Oscar Wilde in thirty years, Matthew Sturgis draws on a wealth of new material and fresh research to place the man firmly in the context of his times. He brings alive the distinctive mood and characters of the fin de siècle in the richest and most compelling portrait of Wilde to date.

Women of the European Union challenges gender-blind assessments of the economic and social aspects of the European Union policies to examine the real implications of Union for the diversity of women in the Member States. The authors also analyze how women's work and daily lives are shaped by local and national policies, by local and global economic conditions, and by diverse and changing cultural values. Detailed contemporary case studies explore how place comes together with class, life stage, sexuality and ethnicity to affect the way in which women are constrained and how they develop strategies to manage their lives.

"Although he is recognized almost exclusively as a master of black-and-white photography, Capa began working regularly with color film in 1941 and used it until his death in 1954. Some of this work was published in the great picture magazines of the day, but the majority of these images have never been printed or seen in any form. While he did use color for some early World War II stories, Capa's use of color film exploded in his postwar stories. These photographs brought the lives of ordinary and exotic people from around the world to American and European readers alike, and were markedly different from the war reportage that had dominated Capa's early career. In the late 1940s, Capa traveled to the USSR, Budapest, and Israel to cover postwar life. Capa's technical ability coupled with his engagement with human emotion in his prewar black-and-white stories enabled him to move easily between black and white and color film. Capa's photographs also provided readers a glimpse into more glamorous lifestyles that depended on the allure and seduction of color photography. In 1950, he covered fashionable ski resorts in the Swiss, Austrian, and French Alps, and the stylish French resorts of Biarritz and Deauville for the burgeoning travel market capitalized on by Holiday magazine. He even tried fashion photography by the banks of the Seine and on the Place Vendome. Through his friendships with many actors, Capa photographed Ingrid Bergman, Humphrey Bogart, Orson Welles, and John Huston, among others, in intimate moments on European film sets. Capa in Color will explore how he started to see anew with color film and how his work adapted to a new postwar sensibility. The new medium required him to readjust to color compositions, but also to a postwar audience, interested in being entertained and transported to new places"--Provided by publisher.

Un mistero irrisolto avvolge la famiglia di Luna Ferri. Qualcosa di enigmatico e ribelle, proprio come i suoi lunghi capelli neri, che sanno di vento e libertà, e come Capitan Harlock, il suo gatto fidato. Sarà Ruben Dubois ad aiutarla a risolvere l'enigma, catapultandola nei segreti dell'antico culto dei benandanti. Tra colpi di scena, streghe e viaggi a ritroso nel tempo, Luna troverà l'amore e soprattutto le sue radici, diventando custode di una tradizione mai dimenticata. Un ricettario, un saggio, una chiave esoterica, e infine un romanzo. Dove si respira magia pura.

The definitive biography that unlocks the remarkable story of Vivian Maier, the nanny who lived secretly as a world-class photographer, featuring nearly 400 of her images, many never seen before, placed for the first time in the context of her life. Vivian Maier, the photographer nanny whose work was famously discovered in a Chicago storage locker, captured the imagination of the world with her masterful images and mysterious life. Before posthumously skyrocketing to global fame, she had so deeply buried her past that even the families she lived with knew little about her. No one could relay where she was born or raised, if she had parents or siblings, if she enjoyed personal relationships, why she took photographs and why she didn't share them with others. Now, in this definitive biography, Ann Marks uses her complete access to Vivian's personal records and archive of 140,000 photographs to reveal the full story of her extraordinary life. Based on meticulous investigative research, Vivian Maier: The Woman Behind the Photographs reveals the story of a woman who fled from a family with a hidden history of illegitimacy, bigamy, parental rejection, substance abuse, violence, and mental illness to live life on her own terms. Left with a limited ability to disclose feelings and form relationships, she expressed herself through photography, creating a secret portfolio of pictures teeming with emotion, authenticity, and humanity. With limitless resilience she knocked down every obstacle in her way, determined to improve her lot in life and that of others by tirelessly advocating for the rights of workers, women, African Americans, and Native Americans. No one knew that behind the detached veneer was a profoundly intelligent, empathetic, and inspired woman—a woman so creatively gifted that her body of work would become one of the greatest photographic discoveries of the century.

Discarded by archivists and disregarded by scholars despite its cultural impact on post-World War II Europe, the film photonovel represents a unique crossroads. This hybrid medium presented popular films in a magazine format that joined film stills or set pictures with captions and dialogue balloons to re-create a cinematic story, producing a tremendously popular blend of cinema and text that supported more than two dozen weekly or monthly publications. Illuminating a long-overlooked 'lowbrow' medium with a significant social impact, The Film Photonovel studies the history of the format as a hybrid of film novelizations, drawn novels, and nonfilm photonovels. While the field of adaptation studies has tended to focus on literary adaptations, this book explores how the juxtaposition of words and pictures functioned in this format and how page layout and photo cropping could affect reading. Finally, the book follows the film photonovel's brief history in Latin America and the United States. Adding an important dimension to the interactions between filmmakers and their audiences, this work fills a gap in the study of transnational movie culture.

Gianni Berengo Gardin

The visionary and creative shots of day-to-day reality by a child of our time. Considered by many the most representative of Italian photographers, for almost fifty years Gianni Berengo Gardin has been a narrator attentive to everyday life in all its multiple aspects and in its evolution, having immortalized the story of Italy in over 1,250,000 pictures. For his work, he prefers black and white because "color distracts the photographer and the viewer." And the images are what counts. People, objects, close-ups, historical monuments. Images that are concrete, never abstract, but above all real images. It's hard not to perceive the creative and visionary component of his snapshots, however much they are attentive to the day-to-day reality of humanity and its communities.

Voted by the readers of "American Photo" as the most influential woman photographer of all time, Mark now turns her eye and her heart to the extraordinary bond that exists between twins.

Prefazione di Natalia Aspesi Questa volta la poltrona dell'analista non è dietro lo schermo, per spiegare, ma davanti, per guardare. Alex Webb and Rebecca Norris Webb on Street Photography and the Poetic Image

Io credo che il giorno che non ci sarà più la poesia, non ci sarà più nemmeno l'uomo. O l'uomo cessa d'esistere, e allora al suo posto verrà fuori una specie di burattino che si muove automaticamente, o resta ancora uomo con tutte le sue qualità fondamentali (fantasia, sentimento, senso di comunione con gli altri, ecc.); in questo secondo caso la poesia per forza continuerà a vivere... Giuseppe Ungaretti Kras o Carso, in fondo che cosa cambia? La cultura non deve avere confini e qui sembra smarrirli, in una terra che non è solo pietre, ma punto d'incontro fra culture. Kras ali Carso, kaj je v bistvu drugače? Kultura ne sme poznati meja, in prav tu se zdi, da jih ni več - na tej zemlji, ki ni le kamen, temveč tudi stičišče kultur.

This is the story of the internationally acclaimed American woman Margaret Bourke-White, who for over thirty years made photographic history: as the first photographer to see the artistic and storytelling possibilities in American industry, as the first to write social criticism with a lens, and as the most distinguished and venturesome foreign correspondent-with-a-camera to report wars, politics and social and political revolution on three continents. In this poignant autobiography, Bourke-White details her fight against Parkinson's disease, and recounts tales of her struggles to master her art and craft, of photographing Stalin, Gandhi and many other notables, of being torpedoed off North Africa while reporting World War II, of flying combat missions, of photographing the dread murder camps of Nazi Germany, of touring Tobacco Road to produce the book You Have Seen Their Faces with Erskine Caldwell (whom she later married), of adventures—and wonderful picture-taking—in the mines of South Africa, in the frozen North, in war-torn Korea. Illustrated throughout with over 70 of Margaret Bourke-White's fine photographs, this is the great life story of a great American, greatly yet modestly told.

The largest and most comprehensive selection of the work of American street photographer Vivian Maier Photographer Vivian Maier's allure can be explained by the mystery that surrounds both her life and her work. The story of Maier—the secretive nanny—photographer who became a popular sensation shortly after her death—has only been pieced together from a small selection of the images she made and the handful of facts that have surfaced about her life. Vivian Maier: A Photographer Found is the largest and most in-depth collection of Maier's photographs to date, including her color images. With lively text by noted photography curator and writer Marvin Heiferman, this definitive volume explores and celebrates Maier's work and life from a contemporary and nuanced perspective, analyzing her pictures within the pantheon of American street photography. With more than 235 full-color and black-and-white photographs, most of which have never been published in book form, this collection also includes images of Maier's personal artifacts and memorabilia that have never been seen before. The text draws upon recently conducted interviews with people who knew Maier, which shed new light on her surprising photographic accomplishments and life. Vivian Maier: A Photographer Found is a striking, revelatory volume that unlocks the door to the room of a very private artist who made an extraordinary number of images, chose to show them to no one, and, as fate would have it, succeeded brilliantly in fulfilling what remains so many people's secret or unrealized desire: to live in and see the world creatively. With more than 235 full-color and black-and-white photographs

Following discussions on scientific biography carried out over the past few decades, this book proposes a kaleidoscopic survey of the uses of biography as a tool to understand science and its context. It offers food for thought on the role played by the gender of the biographer and the biographee in the process of writing. To provide orientation in such a challenging field, some of the authors have accepted to write about their own professional experience while reflecting on the case studies they have been working on. Focusing on (auto)biography may help us to build bridges between different approaches to men and women's lives in science. The authors belong to a variety of academic and professional fields, including the history of science, anthropology, literary studies, and science journalism. The period covered spans from 1732, when Laura Bassi was the first woman to get a tenured professorship of physics, to 2009, when Elizabeth H. Blackburn and Carol W. Greider were the first women's team to have won a Nobel Prize in science.

*In 1942, a dashing young man who liked nothing so much as a heated game of poker, a good bottle of scotch, and the company of a pretty girl hopped a merchant ship to England. He was Robert Capa, the brilliant and daring photojournalist, and Collier's magazine had put him on assignment to photograph the war raging in Europe. In these pages, Capa recounts his terrifying journey through the darkest battles of World War II and shares his memories of the men and women of the Allied forces who befriended, amused, and captivated him along the way. His photographs are masterpieces — John G. Morris, Magnum Photos' first executive editor, called Capa "the century's greatest battlefield photographer" — and his writing is by turns riotously funny and deeply moving. From Sicily to London, Normandy to Algiers, Capa experienced some of the most trying conditions imaginable, yet his compassion and wit shine on every page of this book. Charming and profound, Slightly Out of Focus is a marvelous memoir told in words and pictures by an extraordinary man.—Print Ed. First published in 2013. *The life of a female war photographer killed in action is told by three of her friends in this biographical novel by the author of Bloody Cow. Gerda Taro was a German-Jewish war photographer, anti-fascist activist, artist, and innovator who, together with her partner, the Hungarian Endre Friedmann, was one half of the alias Robert Capa, widely considered to be the twentieth century's greatest war and political photographer. She was killed while documenting the Spanish Civil War and tragically became the first female photojournalist to be killed on a battlefield. August 1, 1937, Paris. Taro's twenty-seventh birthday, and her funeral. Friedmann leads the procession. He is devastated, but there are others, equally bereft, with him: Ruth Cerf, Taro's old friend from Leipzig with whom she fled to Paris; Willy Chardack, ex-lover; Georg Kuritzkes, another lover and a key figure in the International Brigades. They have all known a different Gerda, and one who is at times radically at odds with the heroic anti-fascist figure being mourned by the multitudes . . . Another character in the novel is the era itself, the 1930s, with economic depression, the rise of Nazism, hostility towards refugees in France, the century's ideological warfare, the cultural ferment, and the ascendancy of photography as the age's quintessential art form. Winner of the Strega Prize, The Girl with the Leica is a must-read for fans of historical fiction centered on extraordinary women's lives. Photographer, actress, political activist, writer and muse to artists such as Edward Weston and Diego Rivera, Tina Modotti (1896-1942) produced an astonishing body of work during her relatively brief photographic career. She was active for only nine years, from 1923 to 1932, at which point she turned her focus exclusively to political action. A vital participant in the cultural and political ferment of the Mexican Renaissance, Modotti was expelled from Mexico for her Communist affiliations, moved to Moscow, worked in Spain during the Spanish Civil War and eventually returned to Mexico under a pseudonym. "Tina Modotti" includes 100 of the artist's black-and-white photographs (presented here in exquisite four-color reproductions), and paints a vivid, multifaceted portrait of this extraordinary woman.

Di magia e di vento

Photography and Collaboration offers a fresh perspective on existing debates in art photography and on the act of photography in general. Unlike conventional accounts that celebrate individual photographers and their personal visions, this book investigates the idea that authorship in photography is often more complex and multiple than we imagine – involving not only various forms of partnership between photographers, but also an astonishing array of relationships with photographed subjects and viewers. Thematic chapters explore the increasing prevalence of collaborative approaches to photography among a broad range of international artists – from conceptual practices in the 1960s to the most recent digital manifestations. Positioning contemporary work in a broader historical and theoretical context, the book reveals that collaboration is an overlooked but essential dimension of the medium's development and potential.

Nella periferia di Los Angeles, il 17 luglio 1955, apriva per la prima volta i suoi cancelli Disneyland. Quasi trentamila persone si riversarono nei viali mai calpestati prima, un fiume in piena di bambini pronti a lasciarsi meravigliare. Lì, tra famiglie, figuranti e pupazzi, c'era Vivian Maier, una tata di origine francese da poco trasferitasi sulla West Coast in cerca di un nuovo incarico. La donna girovagava da sola tra la folla con una macchina fotografica in mano: dopo anni di scatti in bianco e nero, aveva deciso di passare al colore per immortalare gli attori travestiti da nativi americani e i castelli di cartapesta, per rendere giustizia a quell'atmosfera sognante e un po' finta. Ma conclusa la gita, quelle foto non furono viste da nessuno, come le altre decine di migliaia di immagini che Vivian Maier scattò e tenne nascoste agli occhi del mondo per decenni. La storia del loro ritrovamento è già leggendaria: montagne di rullini chiusi in scatole di cartone fino al 2007, quando per un caso fortunato John Maloof, il figlio di un rigattiere di Chicago, acquistò in blocco il contenuto di un box espropriato. All'interno trovò un archivio brulicante di autenticità e umanità, il patrimonio di una fotografa sconosciuta che in pochi anni sarebbe stata celebrata in tutto il mondo. Ma mentre le sue opere diventavano sempre più popolari, la sua biografia restava un segreto impenetrabile, perché Vivian aveva sepolto il suo talento con la stessa cura e riserbo con cui aveva protetto la sua vita. Adesso, grazie alla meticolosa ricerca investigativa di Ann Marks, che ha avuto accesso a documenti personali e fonti di primissima mano, quelle vicende personali finora oscure vengono sottratte all'oblio, al mistero e alla leggenda. Vita di Vivian Maier rivela in tutta la sua complessità la storia di una donna fuggita da una famiglia disfunzionale, fra illegittimità, abuso di sostanze, violenza e malattia mentale, per poter finalmente vivere alle sue condizioni. Nessuno, neanche le famiglie presso cui prestava servizio, aveva idea che quella bambina di provincia nascondesse uno dei maggiori talenti fotografici del periodo, in grado di ritrarre le disparità e le ingiustizie degli Stati Uniti del boom economico, le persone comuni, i bambini, la semplice vita urbana. In questo eccezionale volume, che trabocca di foto (anche inedite), l'opera e la vita finalmente si intrecciano in un'unica storia: il ritratto che emerge è quello di una sopravvissuta, fiduciosa nel suo talento nonostante le sfide della malattia mentale, una donna socialmente consapevole, straordinariamente complessa e soprattutto libera. «Vita di Vivian Maier è una panoramica completa e affascinante su un'artista che lavorava per amore dell'arte. È l'inizio di un nuovo modo di raccontarla.» - The New York Times «Ann Marks ha una straordinaria abilità di investigazione che unisce intuito, intraprendenza e tenacia; ma mostra anche profonda empatia e un acuto senso estetico.» - The Washington Post «Ann Marks è la specialista di Vivian Maier. Ha esplorato le zone grigie che il nostro documentario non era riuscito a chiarire.» - John Maloof, scopritore di Vivian Maier e regista e produttore di Alla ricerca di Vivian Maier. In this fresh, portable edition, Dian Hanson guides you over, around, and in between three decades of natural big-breasted nudes, including such infamous models as Michelle Angelo, Candy Barr, Virginia Bell, and Guinness World Record holder Norma Stitz.

Ripercorrere la vita di Maurizio Galimberti significa comporre un mosaico in cui ciascuna tessera è il frammento di un destino scritto, fin dall'infanzia, nelle grate alle finestre dell'orfanotrofio. In quel cielo «reticolato» che guardava sognando una famiglia e la libertà si cela la futura intuizione dei quadri formati da tessere disposte secondo una precisa sequenza, proprio come le lettere dell'alfabeto, «che da sole non comunicano nulla, ma combinate con estro possono dar vita a un romanzo». Nato per la seconda volta quando viene accolto dai genitori «del cuore», da quel momento inizia a collezionare incontri ed esperienze che costituiranno la sua identità di uomo e artista. Fotoamatore precoce, appena dodicenne scopre quella passione incontenibile che di lì a vent'anni sfocerà in una «chiamata» a cui non potrà sottrarsi e che culminerà nel celebre ritratto di Johnny Depp, il suo personale talismano, vera e propria consacrazione a livello internazionale. Armato di fotocamera istantanea, sua inseparabile compagna, l'autore costruisce davanti ai nostri occhi un diario per immagini in cui i ricordi più felici – il matrimonio, la nascita dei due figli e dei nipoti, i primi riconoscimenti professionali, le mostre di maggior successo – si alternano a fasi difficili e dolorose – la carriera intrapresa suo malgrado nell'azienda di famiglia, il duro apprendistato artistico, i pregiudizi di chi crede che con quella macchinetta di plastica non si possa lavorare, ma solo giocare. Sulla scorta delle avanguardie novecentesche e di mostri sacri come Man Ray, André Kertész, Robert Frank, Giovanni Chiaramonte, Luigi Ghirri, Galimberti matura invece una progettualità che combina sapientemente padronanza tecnica, lirismo e uno specifico punto di vista sulla realtà, interpretata trasportando il passato nel presente. Un racconto senza filtri, punteggiato di riflessioni che mettono a fuoco gli elementi fondanti della poetica dell'«instant artist», il cui linguaggio visivo non si limita a documentare la bellezza del mondo, ma ne coglie l'essenza più profonda, le prospettive e le inquadrature più insolite.

Writing about Lives in Science

Slightly Out Of Focus

The first definitive monograph of color photographs by American street photographer Vivian Maier. Photographer Vivian Maier's allure endures even though many details of her life continue to remain a mystery. Her story—the secretive nanny-photographer who became a pioneer photographer—has only been pieced together from the thousands of images she made and the handful of facts that have surfaced about her life. Vivian Maier: The Color Work is the largest and most highly curated published collection of Maier's full-color photographs to date. With a foreword by world-renowned photographer Joel Meyerowitz and text by curator Colin Westerbeck, this definitive volume sheds light on the nature of Maier's color images, examining them within the context of her black-and-white work as well as the images of street photographers with whom she clearly had kinship, like Eugene Atget and Lee Friedlander. With more than 150 color photographs, most of which have never been published in book form, this collection of images deepens our understanding of Maier, as its immediacy demonstrates how keen she was to record and present her interpretation of the world around her.

The original, instant classic which set the world afire. The first book to introduce the phenomenon that is the life story and work of Vivian Maier. A good street photographer must be possessed of many talents: an eye for detail, light, and composition; impeccable timing; a populist or humanitarian outlook; and a tireless ability to constantly shoot, shoot, shoot, shoot and never miss a moment. It is hard enough to find these qualities in trained photographers with the benefit of schooling and mentors and a community of fellow artists and aficionados supporting and rewarding their efforts. It is incredibly rare to find it in someone with no formal training and no network of peers. Yet Vivian Maier is all of these things, a professional nanny, who from the 1950s until the 1990s took over 100,000 photographs worldwide—from France to New York City to Chicago and dozens of other countries—and yet showed the results to no one. The photos are amazing both for the breadth of the work and for the high quality of the humorous, moving, beautiful, and raw images of all facets of city life in America's post-war golden age. It wasn't until local historian John Maloof purchased a box of Maier's negatives from a Chicago auction house and began collecting and championing her marvelous work just a few years ago that any of it saw the light of day. Presented here for the first time in print, Vivian Maier: Street Photographer collects the best of her incredible, unseen body of work. Please note that all blank pages in the book were chosen as part of the design by the publisher.

Updated with new material to celebrate the ten year discovery of Vivian Maier's work This is the only book that tells the life story of Vivian Maier in words and pictures. Known as "the nanny photographer," Maier became an Internet sensation after her photos were put online in 2009. Since then, Maier's breathtaking pictures--which show everyday life in mid-century America--have earned her recognition of one of the masters of photography. Presenting her photographs alongside revealing interviews with those who knew her best, this volume puts Vivian Maier's work in context and creates a moving portrait of her as an artist. To better understand Maier, authors Richard Cahan and Michael Williams studied census records, ship manifests and interviewed every person they could find who knew Maier, from her childhood days in the French Alps to the families whose children she cared for in the United States. They combined this biographical information, much of it unreported, with more than 300 photographs that she took starting in 1949 to create the first comprehensive record of her life story.

It is hard enough to find these qualities in trained photographers with the benefit of schooling and mentors and a community of fellow artists and aficionados supporting and rewarding their efforts. It is incredibly rare to find it in someone with no formal training and no network of peers. Yet Vivian Maier is all of these things, a professional nanny, who from the 1950s until the 1990s took over 100,000 photographs worldwide—from France to New York City to Chicago and dozens of other countries—and yet showed the results to no one. The photos are amazing both for the breadth of the work and for the high quality of the humorous, moving, beautiful, and raw images of all facets of city life in America's post-war golden age. It wasn't until local historian John Maloof purchased a box of Maier's negatives from a Chicago auction house and began collecting and championing her marvelous work just a few years ago that any of it saw the light of day. Presented here for the first time in print, Vivian Maier: Street Photographer collects the best of her incredible, unseen body of work.

The Photographer's Eye: Graphic Guide

L'elegante rivista patinata che da tredici anni esce come supplemento dello storico quindicinale beneventano "Realtà Sannita", a partire dal numero 20 si trasforma rivista internazionale di studi storico-sociali. Senza smarrire la sua originaria vocazione di rivista fotogiornalistica. In questo numero, con bellissime foto completamente a colori, potrete trovare, tra gli argomenti sviluppati: la storia della cartiera di Amalfi; il restauro del libro all'abbazia di Novalesa (TO); le "Emozioni Politiche" di Martha Nussbaum; Vivian Maier, la tata fotografa; Fryda Cileni, storia di una pittrice; economia, salute, felicità.
