easy for them to understand the detailed content of the book. The book offers a practical and simple view of the security practices while still offering somewhat technical and detailed information relating to security. It helps the reader build a strong foundation of information, allowing them to move forward from the book with a larger knowledge base.

Security is a constantly growing concern that everyone must deal with. Whether it's an average computer user or a highly skilled computer user, they are always confronted with different security risks. These risks range in danger and should always be dealt with accordingly.

Unfortunately, not everyone is aware of the dangers or

Online Library

how to prevent them and this is where most of the issues arise in information technology (IT).

When computer users do not take security into account many issues can arise from that like system information. This is an obvious issue

that is present with all computer users.

This book is intended to educate

the average and

experienced user of what kinds of

different security

practices and standards exist. It will also cover how to manage security software and updates in order to be as protected as possible from all of the threats that they face.

And even as the demand for talent goes up, the supply of it will be going down. This seems to particularly hold true in case of the IT-ITES (Information Technology and Information Technology-Enabled Services) industry in India which requires high quality and highly skilled labour force to cater to the rapidly increasing global demand for software services but is currently facing an increasing shortage of skills supply. Moreover, due to shortages of skilled workers, high

India is faced with these three challenges, recruitment and selection comprises an important human resource practice in this industry.

Further, in this industry, human resources comprise both the raw material and the

are therefore of prime importance.

As India completes

operating at the sector is emerging as major driver of the economy. The Indian IT industry comprises of domestic software and services firms as well as foreign firms looking to consolidate their presence in India owing to the increasing cost professionals in India by the year

Indian IT industry is in a strong position
to leverage this global software opportunity (as India
currently has one of the world's largest, most qualified pools of scientific and engineering manpower), this growing global demand is not only for numbers but also for appropriately skilled, industry-oriented professionals as companies are further scaling their operations and offering high value-added services which involve higher levels of technology and more specialized, higher-end services.

Hence, firms which want to maintain their competitive advantage have to carefully recruit and select the most suitable out of the large pool of available manpower.

Moreover, according to a recent study by McKinsey & Co., although the potential supply of talent in low wage countries such as

India is large and growing rapidly, only a fraction of the job candidates could successfully work at a foreign company on account of their limited suitability i.e. though there are many candidates with the technical skills to fill a position, they may not have the cultural skills to "fit in" with the organisation.

The same issue is also faced by large globally competitive domestic Indian firms who are competing for the same pool of talent and skills as their foreign counterparts to remain competitive and survive in global and domestic markets.
