Are you a parent or guardian looking for a top-notch 21st-century private school in Zambia, one that will meet your family needs and expectations? This profound question is at the core of this first-ever book on private school education in Zambia. Choosing a Good Private School for your Child: The Ultimate Guide for Parents and Guardians in Zambia emerged from Monde Nyambe's vast experience working as an educator and school leader in private international school settings. The book provides insights into pertinent factors that assist parents as they make important decisions about private school choices for their children. Through research and experience, the author draws on the views of key stakeholders to create a decision-making tool on choosing a good private school, ideal not only for parents but also for teachers, school leaders and private school proprietors. Make no mistake, this is a must-read for parents intending to give their children a solid head start by ensuring that they secure a good private school amidst the ever-rising number of private schools in Zambia. Recent decades have seen sub-Saharan Africa decline in both economic and human terms. The rich North has responded with a barrage of well-publicized initiatives, from pop concerts to international commitments on debt relief, aid, trade and good governance. Among the complex of factors necessary to sustain economic and human development, education receives little media coverage, although it is crucial. However, education must be effective. This book argues that in 'Anglophone' Africa, education is not effective because of the use of English, rather than children's first languages, both as the medium of instruction, and also as the language in which children are first taught to read. Research is presented from Malawi and Zambia, countries with contrasting language policies, using evidence from tests in English and African languages, small-group discussions and classroom observation. The findings show that English-medium policies in Africa do not give students any advantage in English over first-language policies, while the use of English discriminates against girls and rural children. The book concludes that much education in Africa is a barrier rather than a bridge to learning because of the prevailing language ideology, which has resulted in massive over-estimation of the value of English. While appropriate language policies alone will not solve education and development difficulties in Africa, they do have a positive contribution to make. The evidence presented here suggests they are failing to make that contribution. Education in East and Central Africa is a comprehensive critical reference guide to education in the region. With chapters written by an international team of leading regional education experts, the book explores the education systems of Djibouti, Eritrea, Ethiopia, Kenya, Somalia, South Sudan, Tanzania, Uganda, Zambia, Angola, Burundi, the Central African Republic, the Democratic Republic of Congo, Equatorial Guinea and Sao Tome, Gabon, the Republic of Congo and Rwanda. The book critically examines the regional development of education provision in each country as well as recent reforms and global contexts. Including a comparative introduction to the issues facing education in the region as a whole and guides to available online datasets, this handbook is an essential reference for researchers, scholars, international agencies and policy-makers at all levels.

This material is intended for use by students of literature in English as a reading guide, especially in Zambian schools under the Examinations Council of Zambia. The primary focus of this work is to make the text to be easy to read in the shortest period possible. to achieve this the author has drawn on several resources that explicitly inform a reader's understanding of the play. In addition, the author wishes this work would also aid teachers of literature and college students in textual analysis for academic and other purposes. The author wishes to acknowledge the works cited in this handbook without which it would have been impossible to complete this project. This material has been put together with considerations for future editions in order to sustain quality and relevance.

Does aid work? This book examines this issue. But rather than trying to establish how effective aid has been, the focus is shifted towards one of the key determinants of effectiveness -- the aid relationship. The study looks at the relationship between Zambia and its donors and discusses the likely impact of aid in a country where poverty has become rampant and the international debt has reached unmanageable proportions.

There have been some concerns on the poor performance of pupils in reading comprehension from people in different fora. For instance during School Programme for In-Service for the Term (SPRINT) Meetings in schools, and Grade Twelve Marking Centers. Examiners and teachers have expressed this concern generally in Zambia. The concern is that generally Grade Twelve pupils do not perform well in Reading Comprehension. An analysis of the Examinations Council of Zambia examiners report on the 2007 Joint School Certificate and General Certificate of Education examinations also shows this weakness on the part of pupils in reading comprehension tasks. Reporting on the passage, the report indicates that more than fifty percent of the candidates scored below half the total mark in reading comprehension section; with some scoring as low as between 0 and 5 marks out of 20. The 2008 Examination Council of Zambia, Examiners' report shows almost the same scenario. This state of affairs has raised concerns among education practitioners and officials in the country. However, the performance and reasons for the performance varies from one school to another.

The book 'General Knowledge 2019' has been developed keeping in mind the 1 requirement of the aspirants of various competitive exams like SSC, Banks, Railway, Police, NDA/CDS, RBI, LIC/GIC, UPSC and all other entrance and recruitment exams.
