In the United States, some populations suffer from far greater disparities in health than others. Those disparities are caused not only by fundamental differences in health status across segments of the population, but also because of inequities in factors that impact health status, so-called determinants of health. Only part of an individual's health status depends on his or her behavior and choice; community-wide problems like poverty, unemployment, poor education, inadequate housing, poor public transportation, interpersonal violence, and decaying neighborhoods also contribute to health inequities, as well as the historic and ongoing interplay of structures, policies, and norms that shape lives. When these factors are not optimal in a community, it does not mean they are intractable: such inequities can be mitigated by social policies that can shape health in powerful ways. Communities in Action: Pathways to Health Equity seeks to delineate the causes of and the solutions to health inequities in the United States. This report focuses on what communities can do to promote health equity, what actions are needed by the many and varied stakeholders that are part of communities or support them, as well as the root causes and structural barriers that need to be overcome.

Every family should have financial goals for the future. Being unprepared can lead to monetary chaos. Financial Management of Your Future deals with strategies for accomplishing financial goals. What investment returns are necessary to achieve explicit family goals? How are returns logically related to risks for investment opportunities that are considered? Can different families have different tolerances for experiencing investment risk? Why is asset allocation the key investment decision for most families? What are the characteristics and valuations of bonds, stocks, mutual funds, real estate and international securities that a family might consider? How should a family construct, monitor, and revise a portfolio of investments over time? How should careful estate planning be done by a family in order to delay or avoid taxes in passing on property to their children, grandchildren, and favorite charities? And how can some of the concepts and techniques from "modern portfolio theory" be helpful to a family as it attempts to answer these questions? This book deals with financial strategies for three adult age categories: (1) Families of ages twenty to forty in the earlier years of active employment, child raising, and the beginning of saving for retirement; (2) Families of ages forty to sixty in their years of maximum income, high educational expenses for their children, and more serious thinking about forthcoming retirement; and (3) Families of ages sixty to eighty having retired or approaching full retirement.

This training circular is designed for soldiers in the active component (AC) and the reserve component (RC) (which includes the Army National Guard (ARNG) and the United States Army Reserve (USAR)). It explains the Army's pay system and answers questions concerning basic financial matters. At the end of each chapter there are practical exercises covering the material in the chapter. Chapter 8 contains answers to all of the practical exercises. This training circular will help soldiers understand the military pay and travel systems, spending and saving, investments, and, most importantly, assist soldiers in preparing for financial readiness--in peacetime and during any type of deployment. Remember that this is a guide to be used by all soldiers. Chapter 1 explains the monthly pay and allowances soldiers are entitled to as well as the monthly deductions from their pay. These deductions include taxes as well as voluntary deductions such as allotments and charitable donations. This chapter gives an overview to all soldiers on how the Army pay system works, what entitlements soldiers receive, how soldiers receive their pay, and programs offered for retirement. Chapter 2 outlines the entitlements for Active Component (AC) and Active Guard/Reserve (AGR) soldiers on active duty and answers specific questions about individual Leave and Earning Statements (LESs), the mid-month Net Pay Advice (NPA), and additional entitlements for deployed soldiers. Chapter 3 outlines the entitlements for RC soldiers and answers questions about entitlements, individual LESs, the mid-month NPA, and mobilization allowances. Chapter 4 explains travel pay, how to file travel claims and shows block by block how to complete a travel voucher. Chapter 5, which is probably the most important chapter of this circular, tells soldiers and their families how to prepare for deployment. Chapter 6 explains credit and banking services as well as offers practical advice on establishing and utilizing credit and various banking services. Chapter 7 covers budgeting techniques and general information on investments. The final chapter, chapter 8, contains the answers to the practical exercises, which are located at the end of each chapter. Appendix A is for unit commanders. It outlines differences in the AC and RC pay systems and provides an excellent training tool for Commanders' use when introducing new soldiers to the Army pay system. This publication uses both narrative and question-and-answer formats to present information. Read each question as if you were asking it yourself. Review the answers and if you come across an answer you do not understand or if you have further questions, which are not answered in this circular, talk to your chain-of-command. If your leaders don't know the answer, they will assist you in getting the right answer. You are encouraged to read this entire publication and complete the practical exercises at the end of each chapter. After completing the exercises, keep this circular handy as a reference. The proponent for this publication is the U.S. Army Finance School.

Dave Ramsey explains those scriptural guidelines for handling money.

Although we have been successful in our careers, they have not turned out quite as we expected. We both have changed positions several times-for all the right reasons-but there are no pension plans vesting on our behalf. Our retirement funds are growing only through our individual contributions. Michael and I have a wonderful marriage with three great children. As I write this, two are in college and one is just beginning high school. We have spent a fortune making sure our children have received the best education available. One day in 1996, one of my children came home disillusioned with school. He was bored and tired of studying. "Why should I put time into studying subjects I will never use in real life?" he protested. Without thinking, I responded, "Because if you don't get good grades, you won't get into college." "Regardless of whether I go to college," he replied, "I'm going to be rich."
