Bioremediation refers to the clean up of pollution in soil, groundwater, surface water, and air using typically

microbiological processes. It uses
naturally occurring
bacteria and fungi or
plants to degrade,
transform or detoxify
hazardous
substances to
human health or the environment. For bioremediation to be
effective,
microorganisms

must enzymatically attack the pollutants and convert them to harmless products. As bioremediation can be effective only where environmental conditions permit microbial growth and action, its application often involves the management of

ecological factors to allow microbial growth and

bioremediation has its limitations. Some

They are degraded

First established
nearly two thousand
years ago,

Lukurmata grew to
be a major
ceremonial center in
the Tiwanaku state,
a polity that
dominated the south-

a.d. 400 to 1200.

After the Tiwanaku
state collapsed,
