Why is bedtime the very best time for parents to spend time with their children. One of the best ways to end the day of your children so that they will feel special and loved is to spend your precious time with them. Just before they go to sleep, read them a bedtime story, say a prayer and kiss them good night. Reading to a child, especially at bedtime, when the distractions are minimized, enhances children's language abilities. Children learn from hearing and repetition. They sometimes want to hear a story often and soon have memorized the story. They learn not only from hearing but from the modulation, the sense stress, and the emotions that a parent puts in the reading. As they hear and learn new words, they soon learn to use these words in their sentences and in their communicating. You will be able to spend quality time together with your child, and by spending time with you, you and your child get to do something new together — cheer for the good guys and boo the bad ones in the books you read. You also get a peek into how your child sees the world through the comments she makes on the plot, the characters, and the setting. As kids reach the upper-elementary grades, reading demands increase, yet one-on-one reading instruction for competent readers doesn't. Listening to you read more advanced books shows her strategies that will help her at school. You read aloud with expression. You pause for punctuation. You raise and lower your voice in tune with the action. You speed up or slow down to indicate the degree of tension in the text.
