Spain is the world's second most popular tourist destination, and Fodor's updated guide covers everything visitors need to know--captivating culinary experiences, spectacular beaches, red-hot nightlife, beautiful architecture, mountains for skiing and hiking, and excursions to Africa.

This book owes its concept to the transparency of the work process of Louis I. Kahn, whose ideas are preserved in the wealth of sketches he did whenever developing new concepts or working out details for new building projects. Sketches and plans of different developmental stages of his projects are laid out in a basically chronological order and these are complemented by relevant extracts from his writings and speeches and by his commentary while this documentation was being prepared in 1973 - the year before his death. As in the first edition, the authors' aim has not been to interpret or evaluate. Rather, they wish to provide the scholar with a solid base for further research, allowing him to follow the traces of a remarkably creative mind that revered architecture as a manifestation of man's spirit.

Since unification, eastern Germany has witnessed a rapidly changing memorial landscape, as the fate of former socialist monuments has been hotly debated and new commemorative projects have met with fierce controversy. Memorializing the GDR provides the first in-depth study of this contested arena of public memory, investigating the individuals and groups devoted to the creation or destruction of memorials as well as their broader aesthetic, political, and historical contexts. Emphasizing the interrelationship of built environment, memory and identity, it brings to light the conflicting memories of recent German history, as well as the nuances of national and regional constructions of identity.

3,800 years ago, in the city of Sippar, on the banks of the Euphrates, Iltani dreams of becoming a female scribe, a profession dominated by men. In order to fulfill her destiny, she enters the gugu to become a nad tu, an elite class of monastic women. But life is not so simple and misfortunes threaten her goal. On the verge of despair, it takes all her strength to continue the difficult journey.

Sovrano di Spagna, Germania, Paesi Bassi e di buona parte dell'Italia e del Centro e Sud America, Carlo V coltivò per tutta la vita una grande aspirazione: l'immortalità. Posò per farsi ritrarre da pittori della levatura di Tiziano, finanziò narrazioni eroiche delle sue gesta, così come sontuosi monumenti e palazzi, spingendosi a scrivere un'autobiografia trionfale. Per non dire degli oltre 100.000 atti ufficiali in varie lingue che firmò durante il suo regno. Le testimonianze che lo riguardano sono davvero impressionanti: eppure, la sua figura rimane ancora sfuggente, avvolta in una sorta di mito che lo stesso imperatore contribuì a creare. La ricostruzione di Geoffrey Parker, uno dei più autorevoli storici dell'Europa moderna, dopo lunghe e meticolose ricerche d'archivio, che hanno fatto emergere nuovi documenti di mano dello stesso Carlo V, riesce finalmente a comporre in un mosaico complesso e unitario una biografia esaustiva e illuminante. L'Imperatore è la narrazione della straordinaria parabola di Carlo, da giovane erede di modesti possedimenti nei Paesi Bassi, a vittorioso sovrano del Sacro romano impero, fino alle ultime campagne militari e al ritiro a vita privata. Esaminando i dettagli intimi della vita del sovrano alla ricerca di indizi che ne illustrino il carattere e le inclinazioni, Parker svela le ragioni sottese alla creazione e alla salvaguardia del primo e più duraturo impero transoceanico del mondo.

"Henry van de Velde (1863-1957) is a pivotal figure in design history: a bridge between nineteenth-century eclecticism and the emergence of a modern style. His range was prodigious: from furniture, domestic and shop interiors to ceramics, textiles, dresses, jewelery, silverware and books. He was also the architect of large private houses, theatres, museums and art galleries." --back cover of book

"When Anika Molnar flees her home country of Hungary not long before the break-up of the Soviet Union, she carries only a small suitcase - and a beautiful and much-loved painting of an auburn-haired woman in a cobalt blue dress from her family's hidden collection. Arriving in Australia, Anika moves in with her aunt in Sydney, and the painting hangs in pride of place in her bedroom. But one day it is stolen in what seems to be a carefully planned theft, and Anika's carefree life takes a more ominous turn. Sinister secrets from her family's past and Hungary's fraught history cast suspicion over the painting's provenance, and she embarks on a gripping quest to uncover the truth."--Provided by publisher.

In the early twentieth century there was a revolution in board games. Children's games intended to teach morality were transformed into economic simulations aimed at adults. This book demonstrates how play and games reflect and shape our understanding of money, and explores the history of board games in the twentieth century. Why was a famous psychic so interested in the stock market? How did a feminist campaigner try to undermine capitalism with a game? And why has 'German game' become synonymous with a growing number of cafes all across the world dedicated to playing board games? Playing With Money will be published to accompany an exhibition at the British Museum, which opens in April 2019, drawing on the Museum's collection of games and game money. In it Robert Bracey, curator of the exhibition, investigates how we think about money, and asks what mundane objects like games, and the universal experience of play, can tell us about society.
