undertaken in Africa
in the past decade.

Despite the
transnational scope
of policy change,
very little is known
about the mechanisms of public procurement
governance at the
subnational level.

The argument in this volume is that policy reforms that is the revitalization and professionalization of the public sector to meet the opportunities and challenges of development by contract.

Gender budgeting is an initiative to use fiscal policy and administration to address gender the commercial environment. It has positive contributions since public enterprises tried to achieve different social objectives as their primary roles. In contrast, as a result of being owned by the government, they are preferential treated in different government-created. To overcome such adverse effects the OECD come up with a competition neutrality framework that connotes a similar set of rules to public enterprises and private undertaking. It further demonstrates major set of rules from

Currently the Ethiopian government own public enterprises in different sectors of the economy that needs critical assessment from competition neutrality points of view. The Ethiopian banking sector in general and one of
