

Going By Bus Going Places

Set primarily against a background of Canada's West Coast, the twenty seven stories collected in It's All a Question of Perspective capture the emotions and decisions of everyday people confronted by everyday circumstances, and how they are changed by them. Some reflect the long shadows of past events resulting from their own actions, while others deal with circumstances beyond their control, sometimes caused by seemingly random twists of fate. Telling of love and loss, trust and betrayal, self-sacrifice and abuse, the stories challenge conflicting perspectives, test relationships in marriages, families and friendships, and delve into the experiences of loss of loved ones. This book will be read and enjoyed by anyone intrigued by the surprising and sometimes shocking twists and turns the journey human nature take us on. "The Pistol", one of the stories in this collection, was published in The Advocate, Vol. 67, Part 3, May 2009, published by the Vancouver Bar Association.

Students will enjoy this travel-themed packet, carefully curated for the reading ability of early learners. They will discover new things, learn new words, and show what they know. The comprehension questions will help them review and analyze the passages as well as words that may be new to them. Watch their reading, writing, and vocabulary skills improve with each reproducible single-page lesson.

"This book is chock-full of "tricks of the trade" from the author's 10 years of teaching toddlers. With over 286 activities and ideas that are "right for them" and not watered down preschool-age ideas, this book helps toddlers in fun ways as they develop from 1 to 3 year olds."--Book cover.

Twelve-year-old Jess and her friends are determined to start a girls' hockey team in Fort Desperation, Northwest Territories, but before they can get organized, they must first unmask the "Hockey Vandal" who is trying to stop them.

Blundering about Sorrento and its environs in search of culture, the author unwittingly resists his wives never ending attempts to civilise him. From the heights of Vesuvius, to the ruins of Pompeii and Herculaneum, along the beautiful Amalfi coast and, of course, not forgetting Sorrento itself, the authors propensity to get himself into cringe-making embarrassing situations reaches new heights and plunges even deeper depths as he embarks on the second week of his holiday to Italy, and takes up from where the first book, An Italian Journey, stopped. Ubiquitous Dutchmen, domineering drivers, pestilential teenage girls, a mafioso maitre d, not to mention a glamorous older woman these are just some of the colourful characters whom the gods send to cross the authors path and severely try his patience, whilst his own bungling incompetencies result in an hilarious narrative as he attempts to extricate himself from yet another fine mess he has got himself into. With a fine eye for detail and his penchant for the off-beat and the peculiar, the writer describes not only the people and events, but also the places he visits. You may have visited Sorrento before, but youve never seen it quite like this!

By 2033, almost a quarter of the British population is predicted to be over 65, and 5% will be over 85. This means that more of us will be responsible for someone who is elderly and possibly frail. Yet, even in this age of the internet, many of us have no idea what older people are entitled to, and much help and money goes unclaimed. In addition, not everyone ages gracefully. The problems can be compounded by someone who is difficult to help, and refuses to co-operate with family carers or medical and social work professionals. This book offers practical solutions and emotional support for those looking after older parents or other relatives. Topics include: Mental distress in later life, such as anxiety and depression; The rise in problem drinking among older people; Mental disorders, including schizophrenia, bipolar disorder; personality disorder; Dementia; Housing and social options; If the relationship breaks down; Care for the carer - looking after yourself.

Before the Stone is an autobiography chronicling all the experiences that Dr. Durussia Jenkins has encountered throughout her life. You will be enthralled as you read about the unusual heavenly visitations by mysterious people in different cities and towns that Dr. Jenkins has experienced her entire life. Overcoming death and beyond, through the divine supernatural gift of faith, Durussia has defied the odds of doctors and naysayers alike. Her life has been peppered by joy, pain, family separation, and eventually hope and overcoming. She has learned from the many struggles of life that there is great hope in God's redemptive power and that through his love and restoration of grace wonderful things happen. Dr. Jenkins's story begins in the little town of Winter Park, Florida, and from there, through many twists and turns, ultimately leads her to Jerusalem, where an ancient mystery will open her understanding of her past and start a road to new purpose and promise.

Japanese for Busy People Book 1: Romanized

This book is to acknowledge our Heavenly Father and his mighty angels. There are spiritual forces, energies, and unknown matter also divine that are present in our daily lives. We always seek the divine, yet we find ourselves in paradox. This is indeed where our guides sit in to maintain balance so nature can preserve itself and assure mans survival. The journey has been filled with spiritual awareness, celestial and terrestrial phenomenon, and unexplained events, awakening to a new way of life. Look into a parallel world and be able to exist between the two. Knowledge is good; wisdom is better. Having a true guide when traveling the road of the unknown is heavenly bliss. Successfully navigate the rich world of travel narratives and identify fiction and nonfiction read-alikes with this detailed and expertly constructed guide.

Participatory media is a tool for individual and community education and development, allowing students to express and share their ideas and opinions, and to contribute to the production of the commons. Vital to the storytelling in these community spaces is listening—the listening of project facilitators to participants, of participants to each other, and of the public to the stories that emerge through these projects. Community-based Media Pedagogies examines the role of listening across community media sites to explore its relational qualities and to identify the kinds of teaching and learning that happen in these spaces. Drawing on community media projects and pedagogies across New York, Toronto, and Montreal, this volume documents the stories of racialized and marginalized minority youth and immigrants, and explores which relations and spaces facilitate listening.

Because oral history interviews are personal interactions between human beings, they rarely conform to a methodological ideal. These reflections from oral historians provide honest and rigorous analyses of actual oral history practice that address the complexities of a human-centered methodology.

4th Revised Edition of JAPANESE FOR BUSY PEOPLE, the most popular Japanese language textbook series in the world. Audio recordings are embedded in this enhanced eBook edition. Since it was first published in 1984, the focus of the Japanese for Busy People series has always been to teach Japanese for effective communication. As suggested in the title, this is a concise course for busy students who want to learn natural, spoken Japanese as efficiently as possible in a limited amount of time. The new Japanese for Busy People: Revised 4th Edition is made up of three volumes: Book I, Book II, and Book III. Book I is available in both romanized and kana versions, similar to the Revised 3rd Edition. The Romanized Version uses romanized Japanese throughout, with kana in the Target Dialogues of each lesson.
