

History Final Exam Study Guide

Provides a comprehensive review of key test topics, test-taking strategies, and two full-length practice tests with detailed answers explanations.

The current AP Art History exam includes approximately 500 works of art, analyzed from a historical perspective. A redesign, planned for release for the 2015-2016 school year, emphasizes critical analysis of works of art and understanding of relationships among global artistic traditions. The new curriculum for the AP Art History course includes fewer works of art, reducing the total number included in the class from 500 to 250 and incorporates a slightly higher percentage of non-Western works of art. While there are some changes to the overall content and structure of the exam, the skills and focus of the course and exam are largely unchanged. This review guide is intended to meet the needs of students testing in 2014, 2015, 2016 and beyond. This AP Art History exam cuts through the clutter and eliminates the fluff found in other study guides. This results in more effective time, which in turn means higher scores on the test. Includes a FULL LENGTH AP Art History practice test for all concepts!

Inside ASAP European History, you'll find: • Essential concepts, timelines, dates, people, facts, and events for AP Euro History--all explained clearly & concisely • Lists, charts, maps, and graphs for quick visual reference • A two-pass icon system designed to help you prioritize learning what you MUST, SHOULD, and COULD know in the time you have available • "Ask Yourself" questions to help you'll find • A resource that's perfect for last-minute exam prep and for daily class work Topics covered in ASAP U.S. History include: • Native American & European Interactions • The Revolutionary War & the Constitution • Conflict over slavery • The Industrial Revolution • 20th-century wars & social movements • The 21st C Asked shortly after the revolution about how she viewed the new government, Tatiana Varsher replied, "With the wide-open eyes of a historian." Her countrywoman, Zinaida Zhemchuznaia, expressed a similar need to take note: "I want to write about the way those events were perceived and reflected in the humble and distant corner of Koroenovkaia." What these women witnessed and experienced, and what they were moved to describe, is part of the extraordinary portrait of life in revolutionary Russia presented in this book. A collection of life stories of Russian women in the first half of the twentieth century. In the Shadow of Revolution brings together the testimony of aristocratic birth and Soviet milkmaids, housewives and engineers, Bolshevik activists and dedicated opponents of the Soviet regime. In literary memoirs, oral interviews, personal dossiers, public speeches, and letters to the editor, these women document their diverse experience of the upheavals that reshaped Russia in the first half of this century. Russian women's autobiographies, these life stories take their structure not so much from private events like childbirth or marriage as from great public events. Accordingly the collection is structured around the events these women see as touchstones: the Revolution of 1917 and the Civil War of 1918-20: the switch to the New collectivization; and the Stalinist society of the 1930s, including the Great Terror. Edited by two preminent historians of Russia and the Soviet Union, the volume includes introductions that investigate the social historical context of these women's lives as well as the structure of their autobiographical narratives.

Taken from "The Talented Tenth" written by W. E. B. Du Bois: The Negro race, like all races, is going to be saved by its exceptional men. The problem of education, then, among Negroes must first of all deal with the Talented Tenth: it is the problem of developing the Best of this race that they may guide the Mass away from the contamination and other races. Now the training of men is a difficult and intricate task. Its technique is a matter for educational experts, but its object is for the vision of seers. If we make money the object of man-training, we shall develop money-makers but not necessarily men; if we make technical skill the object of education, we may possess artists only as we make manhood the object of the work of the schools--intelligence, broad sympathy, knowledge of the world that was and is, and of the relation of men to it--this is the curriculum of that Higher Education which must underlie true life. On this foundation we may build bread winning, skill of hand and quickness of brain, with various means of living for the object of life.

Georgia Odyssey is a lively survey of the state's history, from its beginnings as a European colony to its current standing as an international business mecca, from the self-imposed isolation of its Jim Crow era to its role as host of the centennial Olympic Games and beyond, from its long reign as the linchpin state of the Democratic Solid South to its current dominance by the Republican Party. This new edition incorporates current trends that have placed Georgia among the country's most dynamic and attractive states, fueled the growth of its Hispanic and Asian American populations, and otherwise dramatically altered its demographic, economic, social, and cultural appearance and persona. "The constantly shifting cultural landscape of contemporary Georgia," writes James C. Cobb, "presents a jumbled panorama of anachronism, contradiction, contrast, and peculiarity." A Georgia native, Cobb delights in debunking familiar myths about his state as he brings its past to life and makes it relevant to today. Not all of that past is pleasant to recall, Cobb notes. Moreover, not all of today's Georgians are as unequivocal as the tobacco farmer who informed a visiting journalist in 1938 that "we Georgians are confrican as hell." That said, a great many Georgians, both native and new arrivals, care deeply about the state's history and consider it integral to their own lives. Georgia Odyssey is the ideal introduction to our past and a unique and often provocative look at the intersection of that past with our present and future.

Her countrywoman, Zinaida Zhemchuznaia, expressed a similar need to take note: "I want to write about the way those events were perceived and reflected in the humble and distant corner of Koroenovkaia." What these women witnessed and experienced, and what they were moved to describe, is part of the extraordinary portrait of life in revolutionary Russia presented in this book. A collection of life stories of Russian women in the first half of the twentieth century. In the Shadow of Revolution brings together the testimony of aristocratic birth and Soviet milkmaids, housewives and engineers, Bolshevik activists and dedicated opponents of the Soviet regime. In literary memoirs, oral interviews, personal dossiers, public speeches, and letters to the editor, these women document their diverse experience of the upheavals that reshaped Russia in the first half of this century. Russian women's autobiographies, these life stories take their structure not so much from private events like childbirth or marriage as from great public events. Accordingly the collection is structured around the events these women see as touchstones: the Revolution of 1917 and the Civil War of 1918-20: the switch to the New collectivization; and the Stalinist society of the 1930s, including the Great Terror. Edited by two preminent historians of Russia and the Soviet Union, the volume includes introductions that investigate the social historical context of these women's lives as well as the structure of their autobiographical narratives.

Taken from "The Talented Tenth" written by W. E. B. Du Bois: The Negro race, like all races, is going to be saved by its exceptional men. The problem of education, then, among Negroes must first of all deal with the Talented Tenth: it is the problem of developing the Best of this race that they may guide the Mass away from the contamination and other races. Now the training of men is a difficult and intricate task. Its technique is a matter for educational experts, but its object is for the vision of seers. If we make money the object of man-training, we shall develop money-makers but not necessarily men; if we make technical skill the object of education, we may possess artists only as we make manhood the object of the work of the schools--intelligence, broad sympathy, knowledge of the world that was and is, and of the relation of men to it--this is the curriculum of that Higher Education which must underlie true life. On this foundation we may build bread winning, skill of hand and quickness of brain, with various means of living for the object of life.
