This series of books is designed for film fans, memorabilia collectors, film and marketing students, librarians and historians. These books, are visual reference guides to the best examples of movie marketing through the years. We will look at movie production companies, and their films with a heavy focus on the marketing materials, and promotions created to support each one. In many cases the promise of the poster, pressbook and trailer delivered more entertainment than the film itself. Each film will be represented in full color, with restored images of posters, rare pressbooks and behind the scenes photos. Each film highlighted will also include production information, reviews, and box office information when available. When deciding what studio to start with, American International Pictures (AIP) in the 1950's" was the overwhelming winner as the choice for the first volume in our series.. AIP was one of the first production companies that would start movie production with a title and the "movie poster art" to sell a film before it was even shot! Now that is great movie marketing! Movies Covered in Volume 1: AIP: 1954-1957 - "Fast and Furious" 1954, "Beast with 1,000.000 Eyes" 1955", Day the World Ended" 1955, "Phantom from 10,000 Leagues" 1955, "The She Creature" 1956, "It Conquered the World" 1956, "The Undead" 1957, "Voodoo Woman" 1957. Michael Dante played the title role in Winterhawk (1975), a Western about a legendary Blackfoot Chief's character and his principles. In this novella sequel, he pens an ageless saga about ruthless railroad executives trying to assassinate him in order to build their railroad directly through his territory, taking the Blackfoot land without provocation. Winterhawk and his tribe remain strong as long as they can, to protect the land of their people, the land they call home, before the invasion of progress imposes itself on America. This inspiring story of a brave man, who stands up to and fight against those who have their own agenda for his land, evokes the nostalgic atmosphere of Western series that Dante frequently appeared in during American television's Golden Era, such as Death Valley Days, The Big Valley, Daniel Boone, Custer, The Texan, Bonanza, Maverick, and Cheyenne. Presents a collection of interviews with such film directors as John Carpenter, Barry Sonnenfeld, Edward Zwick, and John Schlesinger, offering candid advice on how to get started in the modern film industry.

This book discusses feature films that enrich our understanding of doctor-patient dilemmas. The book comprises general clinical ethics themes and principles and is written in accessible language. Each theme is discussed and illuminated in chapters devoted to a particular film. Chapters start with a discussion of the film itself, which shares details behind the making of the film; box-office and critical reception; casting; and other facts about production. The chapter then situates the film in a history of medicine and medical sociology context before it delves into the clinical ethics issues in the film, and how to use it as a teaching aid for clinical ethics. Readers will understand how each film in this collection served to bring particular clinical ethics issues to the public's attention or reflected medico-legal issues that were part of the public discourse. The book is a perfect instructor's guide for anyone teaching bioethics, healthcare ethics, medical sociology, medical history, healthcare systems, narrative medicine, or nursing ethics.

The idea of "The Green Book" is to give the Motorist and Tourist a Guide not only of the Hotels and Tourist Homes in all of the large cities, but other classifications that will be found useful wherever he may be. Also facts and information that the Negro Motorist can use and depend upon. There are thousands of places that the public doesn't know about and aren't listed. Perhaps you know of some? If so send in their names and addresses and the kind of business, so that we might pass it along to the rest of your fellow Motorists. You will find it handy on your travels, whether at home or in some other state, and is up to date. Each year we are compiling new lists as some of these places move, or go out of business and new business places are started giving added employment to members of our race.

Winterhawk's Land

Masterfully crafted 'Your Life As a Movie: Scripting and Producing Your Dreams Into Reality' equips anyone with all they need to rekindle their lost imagination, create a movie trailer of their perfect life and act it out with gusto. Francesca Banting's powerful analogy, inspired by the philosophy of Bob Proctor, provides a fun and different approach to existing Law of Attraction books that call "cut" before the main feature has a chance to actually play. Imagination is the only way to attract life's dreams, and seeing life as a movie is the perfect way to call "action". Banting's new book guides readers through each and every step of storyboarding their vision, seeing themselves in the starring role and acting out their dreams to turn them into a prosperous new existence. The book contains three sections, each running in parallel with the analogy of a movie's production. "Lights" exposes how the mind works, and how dreams form an integral part of the scripting. Section two, "Camera", empowers people to see themselves in their vision of the perfect life and section three, "Action", gives them all of the tools they need to make that vision happen by exploiting the Law of Attraction. We think in pictures, which is why we all feel an affinity with the movies. We begin by building our own studio, with the lot being our subconscious mind and the gates being our conscious realm of thinking. By having the right things in your lot, you can remove chaos and properly organize your movie bank – an analogic vault for memories of our past experiences. We then script our goals, visualize them in wardrobe and finally create our movie trailer that we will market to the entire universe. It's incredibly simple as readers walk through the entire production process step-by-step. Life tells us to pay attention, stop dreaming and quash our imagination. But, we can only attract things in life if we foster deep and bold inner passion. Most don't know how to tune into the positive frequency that will attract other positive things sharing the airwaves. We all deserve success, so bury the belief that riches and fame are greedy – you're the A-lister of your own life and deserve to live under the limelight. This book shows you how!

What is a Production Company? A production company is a company that oversees the creation of a movie or music, TV commercials, documentaries, music videos or other media. They are there from start to finish during the process of making the product. The production company handles cinematography of a pic, sound effects of music and much more. Without the production company it's unacceptable to make an excellent pic or an excellent sound. They are needed by all who have plans to get their creative decisions out there and brought to life. The nice thing about these companies is that they will make sure the movie or song has some continuity with it. There are so many different separate parts to the company that it would be easy for it to all get mixed up on its own. The production company looks at the product, adds what is needed, and sends out a great piece that is put together perfectly. Getting Started As with any business it takes time, effort and diligence to start your own production company. It helps if you're focused on what you want to do and have ideas about what you want, both starting the company and long-term. Those who operate the most successful production companies are people who are go-getters, self-starters, and unafraid of failure. Office and computer skills are also necessary, and a professional attitude is needed. Having contacts in the industry is also very helpful, but you can do it on your own if you do not have these connections. It is no secret that most production work takes place in big cities like New York City, Los Angeles and Miami. If you live near one of these cities then you're business is more likely to succeed. You must be personable, creative and love movies, but it is going to take a lot more work than just sitting and watching a movie. You should be someone that wants to know the who's, what's and why's of that movie. You must be someone that loves to think about the fun and enjoyment that comes when you are actually on the set creating that action for an audience to see. Being able to write a script is not a requirement but it can certainly help you. In addition to these traits there are also numerous other tools that will be needed to ensure success with a production company. These tools will include things like: High-Definition camera Studio High-Quality microphones Good, quality sound system Quality lighting Movie/ Music Editing Software Computer Experience Employees Money In addition, it is essential that you, or someone else that is in business with

This first ever study of "Beggars of Life" looks at the film Oscar-winning director William Wellman thought his finest silent movie. Based on Jim Tully's bestselling book of hobo life-and filmed by Wellman the year after he made "Wings" (the first film to win the Best Picture Oscar), "Beggars of Life" is a riveting drama about an orphan girl (screen legend Louise Brooks) who kills her abusive stepfather and flees the law. She meets a boy tramp (leading man Richard Arlen), and together they ride the rails through a dangerous hobo underground ruled over by Oklahoma Red (future Oscar winner Wallace Beery).

"Beggars of Life" showcases Brooks in her best American silent-a film the "Cleveland Plain Dealer" described as "a raw, sometimes bleeding slice of life." With more than 50 little seen images, and a foreword by William Wellman, Jr. Plastic Films, HDPE and Thermoset Plastics are now an accepted part of the industrial and domestic scenes but this growth has been comparatively recent. Plastic films are typically used for sealing food items in containers to keep them fresh over a longer period of time. Plastic wrap, typically sold on rolls in boxes with a cutting edge, clings to many smooth surfaces and can thus remain tight over the opening of a container without adhesive or other devices. The past several years have seen numerous plastic films developed for the packaging industry, the most used today being polyethylene. Cast polypropylene film, like polyethylene film is unoriented (not stretched), but it was found that an improved film could be obtained by orientation (stretching the cast in one or more directions). Biaxial orientation is the process whereby the continuous cast film or sheet of plastic is heated up to brings it to a temperature that makes it stretchable. BOPP film possesses superior tensile strength, flexibility, toughness, shrink ability, good barrier and optical characteristics. The use of polyethylene terephthalate film is increasing considerably in recent years in videos audio magnetic tapes, computer tapes, photo and X ray films, power capacitors, insulation tapes and metalling for artificial zari. High density polyethylene (HDPE) or polyethylene high density (PEHD) is a polyethylene thermoplastic made from petroleum. The major applications of HDPE are in the manufacturing of containers, pipes, house wares, toys, filament, woven sacks, film, wire and cable insulation. HDPE is lighter than water, and can be moulded, machined, and joined together using welding (difficult to glue). Thermoset, or thermosetting plastics are synthetic materials that strengthen during being heated, but cannot be successfully remolded or reheated after their initial heat forming. This is in contrast to thermoplastics, which soften when heated and harden and strengthen after cooling. Thermoplastics can be heated, shaped and cooled as often as necessary without causing a chemical change, while thermosetting plastics will burn when heated after the initial molding. Additionally, thermoplastics tend to be easier to mold than thermosetting plastics, which also take a longer time to produce (due to the time it takes to cure the heated material). Some of the astonishing fundamentals of the book are salient features of contemporary, technology and current research, three basic processes: advances, modern polyethylene, processes using high yield catalysts, solution polymerization processes, polyolefins, low density polyethylene, polyvinylidene chloride (PVDC), vinyl chloride/vinyl acetate copolymers, polyvinyl acetate, polyvinyl alcohol, physical and chemical properties, manufacturing methods, extrusion of film, slit die extrusion (flat film extrusion), comparison of blow and cast film processes, water cooled polypropylene film, calendaring, solvent, casting, casting of regenerated cellulose film, orientation of film, expanded films, plastics net from film, unsaturated polyester and vinyl ester resins, thermoset polyurethanes, guidelines and theories in compounding polyurethane elastomers, compounding for thermoset polyurethane elastomers, cellulose and cellulose derivatives, thermoplastic polymers etc. The present books offer an up to date overview of the processing of plastic films, HDPE and thermoset plastics. This book is suitable for entrepreneurs, researchers, professionals, technical institutions etc.

Among Asian countries--where until recently documentary filmmaking was largely the domain of central governments--Japan was exceptional for the vigor of its nonfiction film industry. And yet, for all its aesthetic, historical, and political interest, the Japanese documentary remains little known and largely unstudied outside of Japan. This is the first English-language study of the subject, an enlightening close look at the first fifty years of documentary film theory and practice in Japan. Beginning with films made by foreigners in the nineteenth century and concluding with the first two films made after Japan's surrender in 1945, Abe Mark Nornes moves from a "prehistory of the documentary," through innovations of the proletarian film movement, to the hardening of style and conventions that started with the Manchurian Incident films and continued through the Pacific War. Nornes draws on a wide variety of archival sources--including Japanese studio records, secret police reports, government memos, letters, military tribunal testimonies, and more--to chart shifts in documentary style against developments in the history of modern Japan.

Matt Johnson had a life he was happy enough with. Could he learn to be happy with his death as well? This zombie story is written from his point of view-- from normal, everyday security guard, to brain-eating, mindless zombie.
