

Mechanical Engineering Industrial Training Report Sample

The Industrial Assessment Center at Iowa State University provided 93 companies in 5 states with Industrial Assessments. The total potential energy cost savings is approximately $11.43 million. The savings includes approximately 38.6 million kWh of electrical energy, 65 MW of electrical demand, and 426,000 MMBtu of natural gas. The center employed and trained 43 engineering students and involved 4 engineering faculty from both the Industrial and Mechanical Engineering Departments. Benefits to the public include increased productivity of manufacturing plants, training of engineering students in the area of industrial energy efficiency and reduced energy consumption.

Report

This report reviews engineering's importance to human, economic, social and cultural development and in addressing the UN Millennium Development Goals. Engineering tends to be viewed as a national issue, but engineering knowledge, companies, conferences and journals, all demonstrate that it is as international as science. The report reviews the role of engineering in development, and covers issues including poverty reduction, sustainable development, climate change mitigation and adaptation. It presents the various fields of engineering around the world and is intended to identify issues and challenges facing engineering, promote better understanding of engineering and its role, and highlight ways of making engineering more attractive to young people, especially women.--Publisher's description.
