This report presents an analysis of the relationship between educational policymaking and educational practice in schools and classrooms. It is designed to contribute to the debate on reform by drawing lessons from recent attempts to reform schools with policy. The authors' central message is that the connection between policymakers and practitioners should be strengthened. Changes in education are composites of practice, structure, and rules. Federal experience indicates that educational reform must be grounded in an understanding of how teachers learn to teach, how school organization affects practice, and how these factors affect children's performance. The authors suggest that, to be effective, current reforms must (1) close the gap between policy and practice, in part by charging practitioners with developing solutions; (2) accommodate variability, through policies that lead to better understanding of effective practice; (3) recognize that rules only set standards of fairness and don't prescribe solutions to practical problems; and (4) create organizations that foster reforms.

Readers will learn how the economy is affected by the ACA, and the impact of the ACA rollout.

Esta obra ofrece ejemplos prácticos y didácticos de una selección de casos reseñables sobre aplicaciones de las tecnologías de la información y de la comunicación en el ámbito de la publicidad y de las relaciones públicas. Desde múltiples perspectivas teóricas y metodológicas, este volumen constituye uno de los primeros estudios del impacto de la tecnología en la comunicación comercial, contrarrestando el habitual discurso triunfalista de algunos profesionales, medios y blogueros. Para evitar este reduccionismo tecnológico y ofrecer un discurso mínimamente crítico, este impacto de la tecnología en la industria de la comunicación se hace desde una aproximación sociocéntrica, es decir, analizando la tecnología en su contexto social en sentido amplio, incluyendo elementos regulatorios, políticos, económicos, industriales y, especialmente, los usos que los usuarios dan a esta tecnología.
