most films. By the late 1930s, movie studios had established music departments, and some of the greatest names in film music emerged during Hollywood's Golden Age, including Alfred Newman, Max Steiner, Dimitri Tiomkin, and Bernard Herrmann. The Encyclopedia of Film Composers features entries on more than 250 movie composers from around the world. It not only provides facts about these artists but also explains what makes each composer notable and discusses his or her music in detail. Each entry includes Biographical material Important dates Career highlights Analysis of the composer's musical style Complete list of movie credits This book brings recognition to the many men and women who have written music for movies over the past one hundred years. When a rock star kisses you, the least they could do is remember. But that's apparently too much to ask. After a disastrous turn on Broadway for what was supposed to be his on-stage debut, rock star Matt Reed is ready to step out of the spotlight for a good long while. Nothing sounds better than getting away to his best friend's secluded property in North Carolina. Alone. Or at least he was supposed to be alone. Vivienne Forrester has been in love with her brother's best friend for as long as she can remember, though she never thought rock star Matty Reed would give her the time of day. Never mind that he seems to have zero recollection of the one and only time he actually kissed her. But now that they're both staying on the same property, that might finally change. That last thing Matt was looking for when he exiled himself in North Carolina was love, but it doesn't take long for his feelings for Vivienne to become undeniable. It doesn't matter how pissed her brother is at this turn in their relationship, Matt's not backing down. Except being with Vivienne means stepping back into the world and Matt isn't sure he's ready to return to the spotlight.

Memoir of a Polish Girl at the Time of the Russian Revolution (1914/1924). Expanded hardcover edition with additional photographs. Irene Rochas was born Aniela Tarnowicz in Warsaw in 1906, the youngest child in a large upper middle-class Polish family. With the outbreak of WW I in 1914, Irene and her family were stranded in Moscow, and with the further outbreak of the Bolshevik Revolution, they were able to return to their homeland only after a delay of four years. Irene's rediscovered narrative - written when she was fifty years old and set in the form of a novel - is a remembrance of those eventful years of her childhood in Moscow and Warsaw. In this sense, it is truly a memoir. Yes, danse macabre is the dance of death, the last waltz to which we are all invited. But Irene's Danse Macabre - with its inquisitive and empathetic tone... and its often searing imagery - is less a rumination on the inevitability of death and more a testament to the vibrancy of life itself. A History

Big Talent, Huge Ego, and an Enormous... Everything. Josh- After years of hard work I finally landed my dream job as a musician with a major orchestra. When our new conductor with a name too hard to pronounce strutted on to the stage for the first time, he oozed a confident and cocky sex appeal that captivated me and every other person present. I was used to being the wallflower, the boy always picked last for the team. So when he demanded I meet him after work for a private rehearsal, I was shocked. Of course I went, only to discover my new conductor was a bit handsy, if you know what I mean. At first I thought I was reading too much into it, but the chemistry sparking between us was real. Serge was more than just my boss, he was a force of nature determined to make me his. Serge- Don't fall in love. Ever. That's how I lived my life, until I met him. When I first laid eyes on Joshua, all I could think of was how much I wanted to hear his voice screaming my name while I... you get the picture. I was coming dangerously close to falling for him, which could destroy me and the paper-thin walls I'd built to keep the world at bay. On the outside, I appeared to have everything a man could want. A successful career that spanned the globe, and a face that appeared on the covers of magazines. On the inside, I had a secret that could destroy us both. Mr. Mouthful is a red-hot read about a mercurial man who appears to have it all, but realizes he has nothing without the only man he loves by his side. It's book three in The Boys of Oregon Hill Series and can be read as a stand-alone novel. Perfect read for fans of gay romance featuring musicians, scars, artists, first love, and the authors Elle Kennedy, Sabrina Bowen, Andrew Gray, AE Via, Parker Avrile, Sean Michael, John Inman, Felice Stevens, Marie Sexton, Rick Reed, and Amy Aislin.

An illustrated history of America's musical heritage ranges from the earliest examples of Native American traditional song to the innovative sound of contemporary rock and jazz.
