“Ever wanted to continue a conversation with a lifelong friend who has died? Impossible, you say! Not for cardiologist and author Roger Mills and his Amherst College classmate and rowing partner from fifty years ago—the accomplished European research biologist Bernard Witholt. This book was born two years after Witholt's death, when his widow shared his journal about living with an “unruly heart” (that occasionally raced at 240 beats per minute) with Mills. 240 Beats per Minute recounts an extraordinary conversation—the combination of Bernie's journal and Roger's commentary.

It's a read of such continuing surprise, discovery, triumph, and, in the end, mutual understanding and respect, that we readers become the luckiest of eavesdroppers: Long after we finish Life with an Unruly Heart, Bernie and Roger's conversation will live in our minds.” —Paul Dimond, lawyer

The story of George and Margaret Geoghegan. George was a foot soldier in the Easter Rising of 1916 in Dublin who managed to achieve some sort of minor fame for being one of the 84 rebels killed in Easter week. His wife Margaret was left to raise their three children in one of the most notorious slums in Europe. The book also details her interminable correspondence with the Army Pensions Board, seeking to gain redress. Also contains genealogical material of the Geoghegan and Ledwidge families of Dublin.

An honest, gut-level book about loss that unwraps issues, empties broken hearts, and shatters communication barriers while offering friendship and hope to the reader. This is a togetherness experience—someone coming alongside to share and comfort—before moving on. Mildred shares her own journey of loss and hope through the following chapters: Left Behind, Slipping Into Another World, Laughter—The Best Medicine, It Happened on Monday, When the Day Turned Dark, Woman's Best Friend, The Christmas Runaways, You're Going to Be a What?, Out of the Nest, Out of Africa, Back to Reality, Housedresses and Bare Feet, Who Cares?, The Enigmatic Decade, Life
