When savage death stalks the British countryside, there's only one man to call...In the aftermath of a vicious attack, Tara Pride, a young American student, doesn't know where to turn. Terrified and distraught over the death of her friend, she's convinced this is more than just wild dogs or rabid animals. So she reaches out to the one man who might believe her—paranormal investigator and Cambridge professor, Marcus Mortlake. At first glance, Mortlake seems an unlikely candidate to battle the supernatural considering his eccentric character. But despite his curmudgeonly exterior, Mortlake has faced evil beyond imagination, and put his life on the line countless times to defend humanity. Now, Mortlake and Tara find themselves facing a deadly enemy: Rupert Gonfallon, a wealthy and sadistic Lord, who owns the land where the attack took place. And Mortlake is certain Rupert is connected to a string of bloody murders. But the truth is even more dangerous than the professor suspects. A pack of savage killers lurks within the Lord's estate harboring a sinister agenda. Infecting themselves with an ancient curse to gain power and strength, these ravenous beasts claim the dark forests as their territory. Now, their infection is spreading. And unless Mortlake can stop them, the countryside will run red with the blood of fresh prey...

The first book in this USA Today Bestselling series. Middle age was never so much fun - if you don't count the murders. When her husband of thirty years runs off with a college student named Cherri, Jane Delight returns to Pennsylvania to work in her Amish sister's cupcake store. Having lost everything in the divorce, Jane now finds herself sharing an apartment with two feisty octogenarians and their quirky cat. Mr. Crumbles. But there is no time to despair. A man is murdered in the cupcake store, and now Jane is the prime suspect. Enter brooding detective Damon McCloud, a Scot with a tragic past and a desire for justice. Can Jane solve the murder, wrangle her new roommates, and stop herself from falling for the detective? Or will she never get her new life on track? A freebie Book 1 in a delightful cozy mystery series from USA Today best-selling author, Ruth Hartzler.

A large number of poisonous plants have beneficial uses in both domestic medicine and magic. Needless to say, when utilising a toxic plant in magic, we are adding certain extra deadly or potent energies into the mix and it is inadvisable to start messing about with deadly poisons unless we've made a thorough study of the subject - and not just by glancing at a paragraph in a book on herbal preparations!

Wrong place. Wrong time. Perfect love. Fate brings two strangers from two different worlds together. Love unites them. Evil tears them apart. Dinah isn't just any private investigator from the multiverse. She specializes in violent cases across the multiverse, and she has never lost a case until her best friend becomes the latest victim of a mass murder. The only clue she could find is from Arik, an Oxford university professor on Earth. The problem is, not only he's human - a complicated kind of creature that she finds hard to understand - he holds many secrets that put himself and those he loves in danger. She reaches out to him. He agrees to help. She gets close to the truth behind her friend's death. But she can't solve the case without putting Arik in the crossfire between his haunting *past and her daunting future. She could walk away from the case, from Arik and the information that a supernatural war is descending on human kind. But she decides to stay and get involved, knowing that it might be the point of no return to her peaceful life in a universe faraway from this polluted place called Earth. NATIONAL BOOK AWARD FINALIST • NATIONAL BESTSELLER • A twisting, haunting true-life murder mystery about one of the most monstrous crimes in American history, from the author of The Lost City of Z. In the 1920s, the richest people per capita in the world were members of the Osage Nation in Oklahoma. After oil was discovered beneath their land, the Osage rode in chauffeured automobiles, built mansions, and sent their children to study in Europe. Then, one by one, the Osage began to be killed off. The family of an Osage woman, Mollie Burkhart, became a prime target. One of her relatives was shot. Another was poisoned. And it was just the beginning, as more and more Osage were dying under mysterious circumstances, and many of those who dared to investigate the killings were themselves murdered. As the death toll rose, the newly created FBI took up the case, and the young director, J. Edgar Hoover, turned to a former Texas Ranger named Tom White to try to unravel the mystery. White put together an undercover team, including a Native American agent who infiltrated the region, and together with the Osage began to expose one of the most chilling conspiracies in American history.

REALITY BITES Talk radio host and werewolf Kitty Norville has agreed to appear on TV's first all-supernatural reality show. She's expecting cheesy competitions and manufactured drama starring shapeshifters, vampires, and psychics. But what begins as a publicity stunt will turn into a fight for her life. The cast members, including Kitty, arrive at the remote mountain lodge where the show is set. As soon as filming starts, violence erupts and Kitty suspects that the show is a cover for a nefarious plot. Then the cameras stop rolling, cast members start dying, and Kitty realizes she and her monster housemates are ironically the ultimate prize in a very different game. Stranded with no power, no phones, and no way to know who can be trusted, she must find a way to defeat the evil closing in . . . before it kills them all.

Lycanthropy is the theme of a special anthology of holiday tales featuring an outstanding collection of werewolf stories by Charlaine Harris, Simon R. Green, Keri Arthur, Dana Stabenow, Carrie Vaughn, Patricia Briggs, Rob Thurman, and others.

Is it still possible to fake your own death in the twenty-first century? With six figures of student loan debt, Elizabeth Greenwood was tempted to find out. So off she sets on a darkly comic foray into the world of death fraud, where for $30,000 a consultant can make you disappear--but your suspicious insurance company might hire a private detective to dig up your coffin...only to find it filled with rocks. Greenwood tracks down a British man who staged a kayaking accident and then returned to live in his own house while all his neighbors thought he was dead. She takes a call from Michael Jackson (no, he's not dead--or so her new acquaintances would have her believe), stalks message boards for people contemplating pseudocide, and gathers intel on black market morgues in the Philippines, where she may or may not obtain some fraudulent goodies of her own. Along the way, she learns that love is a much less common motive than money, and that making your death look like a drowning virtually guarantees that you'll be caught. (Disappearing while hiking, however, is a way great to go.) Playing Dead is a charmingly bizarre investigation in the vein of Jon Ronson and Mary Roach into our all-too-human desire to escape from the lives we lead, and the men and women desperate enough to give up their lives--and

If you believe the news, today's America is plagued by an epidemic of violent hate crimes. But is that really true? In Hoax, Professor Wilfred Reilly examines over one hundred widely publicized incidents of so-called hate crimes that never actually happened. With a critical eye and attention to detail, Reilly debunks these fabricated incidents—many of them alleged to have happened on college campuses—and explores why so many Americans are driven to fake hate crimes. We're not experiencing an epidemic of hate crimes, Reilly concludes—but we might be experiencing an unprecedented epidemic of hate crime hoaxes.

On July 6th, 1989, Isaac Ruhdel, an eccentric, recluse, multi-millionaire, was reportedly killed by an aberrant lightning Nor'easter. He willed all of his liquid assets and properties to a robustly handsome, young chemist, named Chris A. L. but one property-Ruhdel's home-a mansion at 55 King Street, which, for the next ten years, went unclaimed, and fell into disrepair, that the Weehawken City Council moved to have the dwelling (locally known as "Weehawken's Haunted Mansion") demolished. During the demolition, 25 skeletons-all of young men between the ages of 12 and 18-were discovered. The coroner, Doctor C. Malcolm Gibbs, some had been there only a few months; others for the better part of a decade. The inarguably handsome, local, TV news reporter and anchorman for Channel 12, WPIC, would begin his 6 and 10 p.m. news reports on Monday, December 20th, 1999 -ironically during the height of the festive Christmas season-with these unanswered questions:

house at 55 King Street really haunted? How could 25 young men disappear and go unnoticed from the community? work of a serial killer? Why only young male adolescents and teenagers? Were the victims possibly gay? Was the Kill gay...Or were these hate crimes? Michael Kasper would conclude his TV newscast thusly: "Do we have a devious, dark pervert, mass-murderer in our midst?" To come up with answers to these questions, Michael enlists the aide of his partner of 14 years, Allen Deur-Kasper ("Baby Bear")-and their canine companions: Spot, Michael's Dalmatian, with an sense of his place in the universe; and Spotless, Allen's Westie, who is simply "always too exhausted" to care. Because of their position as an investigative reporter, and Allen's position as Chief Research Librarian at the Weehawken Free Public Library, they are a perfect complement to the accompanying posse of colorful, multi-dimensional characters, who join the investigation in this rousing tale: Detective Dan J. Becky, whose incessant appetite for the truth is only exceeded by his appetite for the truth; Librarian Clara Haupt, Allen's brilliant, quasi-alcoholic, (probably lesbian), uber-liberal boss; Maxwell Bane from Ukraine, an expert on weirwolves and wolfsbane; Rupram Chakraborty, the Hindu Yoga master; Sason Tanof, the Bengal Tiger; Lillian Bridgedale, the 12 year old abductee, who's only just discovered how to make "white stuff;" Frank DeCarpo, Weehawken's shortstop, who escapes to tell the tale of his abduction; Old Mr. Sal DeRauchi, driver of the dung wagon at the zoo; and a local butcher..."You can't beat Warfield's Meat!" They (along with the good citizens of Weehawken, the Mayor, the Police, and the Fire Chief) encounter and confront: demonic possession, reincarnation, murder, vampirism, criminal abductions, pederasty, monkhood, death by exsanguination, exhumations, identities obscured by anagrams, and a dungeon jail-hidden beneath the city's extravagant display of wealth and opulence! It's a page-turning tale of the supernatural, with a suspenseful build-up and a satisfying ending.

Charlaine Harris, Keri Arthur and Patricia Briggs bring you a Christmas present to remember! We all know the holidays can bring out the beast in anyone - but it's especially hard if you're a lycanthrope! Gathered here together is a veritable feast of tears: fifteen of the scariest, saddest, funniest werewolf tales, by an outstanding pack of authors, best read by the light of the moon, and with a silver bullet close at hand. In 'Gift Wrap', Sookie Stackhouse is feeling mighty sorry for herself, all alone on Christmas - until she meets someone with bigger problems than loneliness ... Patricia Briggs gives us the story of Lone Christiansen, who needs to mend fences with his daughter, before it's too late. In 'Christmas Past', Keri Arthur tells the story of Hannah, who gets an unmerry and potentially life-threatening Christmas present when the hunky werewolf who disappeared on Christmas Eve turns up as her partner on the hunt for a vampire serial killer. All these and more feature in WOLFSBANE AND MISTLETOE, the perfect antidote to Christmas mawkishness!

America's first and most notorious serial killer and his diabolical killing spree during the 1893 World's Fair in Chicago, updated with a new afterword discussing Holmes' exhumation on American Ripper. H. H. Holmes: The True History of City Devil is the first truly comprehensive book examining the life and career of a murderer who has become one of supervillains.
